

IAEOP Fall Conference
Saturday Evening, October 13, 2007
Entertainment

Ms. Tauyna Jenkins, Principal at the Roosevelt Alternate School for the Performing and Visual Arts in Peoria, Illinois and the Fine Arts Dance Teacher, Ms. Liz Curtain brought 30 of their students to perform at the IAEOP Fall Conference on Saturday evening, October 13, 2007.

Roosevelt Magnet School is innovative in its own right. Their first priority is student achievement. They offer a comprehensive academic program by integrating arts and technology into their curriculum. Since 1986, their specialized performing arts curriculum has attracted student from all over the City of Peoria.

They have 13 “arts” teachers who teach a large variety of visual, enrichment, and performing classes. There are over 20 performing groups including band, orchestra, drama, dance, and choral, along with exciting visual arts classes. Roosevelt is often called upon as the youngest of performers for state and nation-wide events.

The IAEOP conference attendees at Stoney Creek Inn came energized with the entertainment. Thirty students were there presenting: African Dance, Ballet, Drama, Singing, Concert Dance, and a Swing Dance Ensemble.

For more information about Roosevelt Magnet School, visit: <http://www.psd150.org/roosevelt/>.

Naomi Fettes,
IAEOP Director North

10.15.07